A plan was forged to bring forth new ideas and businesses for sale into the world, by connecting Business and idea owners with investors. Recognizing that most people in the world today have ideas, that won't see the light of day, David Selley sprung a plan into action. This, he calls the www.ideamanexpert.com This site is where ideas can be found, bought, and given the opportunity to rise. The overall purpose of the website is to provide people with ideas, a means for them to see their ideas come to fruition, even if it won't be in their own hands, whilst making some money out of it as well.. Investors and buyers looking for a Business or idea will be able to offer cash, royalty, or license and an auction will also be available on the site. A network of accredited business brokers will handle the business sale transactions. Of course, the owner of the site is not blind to the fact there might be situations where the buyer of the ideas might want to steal an idea, and cheat the seller out of it. This is why there will be a mandatory non-compete agreement, which will provide global legal protection from any idea pirates.
